

Polyven, LLC

About Polyven, LLC:

Polyven LLC was founded as a consulting and business development firm specialized in the petrochemical industry with a focus on deployment of emerging new technologies and sustainable developments in the plastics manufacturing and converting sectors. Along the way our business model has become global hence the advent of Polyven International, LLC which has focused on the initial core competencies of Polyven, LLC with respect to the world economy. Since transportation and energy are closely linked we felt that creating our own 4PL entity such as E3DLogistics would be an added service to our clients. This WEB site reaches across various platforms on a global scale and allows our group of companies to differentiate themselves and become a value added provider of solutions which benefit clients worldwide.

About SiteCube:

SiteCube proved to be a company which delivered innovation with its intuitive WEB site building process in modules which are relational and easy to navigate in order to convey critical information in a very graphic manner and retain the engagement potential of prospective clients. The uniqueness of the artistic value and dynamic content has proven to allow our group of companies to become differentiated Vs the competition and keep existing clients coming back for new material as well as attracting new ones due to the increasing popularity of this new technology. Thank you SiteCube for allowing us the freedom of design and expression with your unique product.

John Denzer
Bal Harbour, Florida
<http://www.polyven.org>